THE CONSCIOUS CAPITAL CONCLAVE

Business beyond business.

EMERGE AURO is India's first Conscious Capital Conclave. It places startup founders and innovators at the centre, surrounds them with serious investors, policy institutions and global peers, and grounds all of it in Auroville's working philosophy of human unity and ecological stewardship.

The hardest problems on the planet — climate breakdown, food insecurity, failing health systems, polluted oceans, fractured communities — are being worked on right now by entrepreneurs with more conviction than capital. EMERGE exists to close that gap: to put the founders solving these problems in the same room as the people who can fund, pilot and scale what they are building.

This is not a trade expo and not a pitch competition. It is a working conclave of conscious commerce, built with Auroville Foundation and Pondicherry University, and measured by what leaves the room — investment commitments, MoUs, procurement pilots, and a model of innovation that other Indian states can copy.

THE PARTNERSHIP

Four positions. Seven named slots.

Each position carries a defined role in the programme and a defined level of access — not a logo on a banner. Slots are capped so that every partner is visible, and allocated in order of confirmation.

1 only	2 positions	4 positions	open
₹25,00,000	₹15,00,000	₹7,50,000	₹3,00,000

All figures exclusive of GST.

EXHIBIT AT THE STARTUP SHOWCASE

Not every organisation needs a partnership. If you want a presence on the showcase floor — to sell, to recruit, to source, or to meet founders — take a stall.

Standard exhibition stall	Compact exhibition stall	Startup desk
3M x 3M	3M x 2M	Desk with two seats
₹30,000	₹20,000	₹8,000

Sixty stalls under a covered pavilion at Bharat Nivas, open across 24 and 25 October. Rates exclusive of GST. Auroville enterprises, startups and corporates pay the same rate. Includes stall structure, table, seating, power point and two exhibitor passes.

THE CASE AND THE CLOSE

Why Emerge Auro, this year.

1. Founders you cannot meet anywhere else.

The cohort is curated, not ticketed — screened in two rounds, sourced from Auroville's 250-enterprise ecosystem, university research labs, and startup networks across India and abroad. These are entrepreneurs building in climate, agriculture, health and clean energy, most of them outside the metro accelerator circuit.

2. Deal flow, not a conference badge.

The Deal Lounge runs pre-scheduled twenty-minute meetings, matched in advance from a dossier you receive weeks before the event. You arrive with a schedule, not a lanyard.

3. A policy room, not a policy panel.

The research and development funding clinic, the Conscious Innovation Zone dialogue and the government-witnessed signing ceremony are working sessions. Commitments made here are documented.

4. A place that does the argument for you.

Auroville has run enterprise on ecological and human-unity principles since 1968. Nothing you can build in a hotel ballroom makes the conscious-capital case as well as three days inside a community that already lives it.

5. Reach that starts before October.

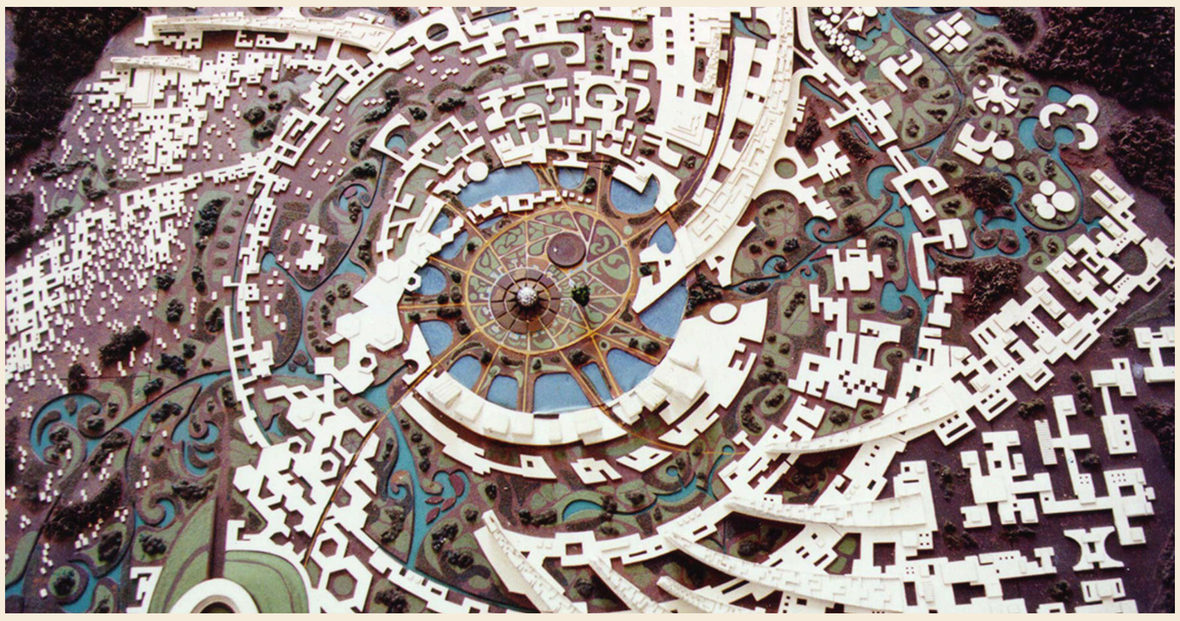

Named presence at the New Delhi curtain raiser, the national roadshows, the Innovation Challenge campaign across university and school networks, and a sustained media and social campaign from September. Your association is public well before the doors open.

6. Position, held.

A first edition has one Founding Partner and it can only ever be sold once. Every subsequent year, that name is the one attached to where this started.

"Why Puducherry and Auroville?"

Because the argument for conscious capital is more convincing where it has already been made. Auroville has been running enterprise on those principles since 1968, a 250-unit economy to walk through, and a weekend footfall no convention centre can manufacture. Pondicherry University brings the research base and the students.

Every company will eventually be asked what it stood for while the deciding was still being done. This is a chance to take a position early, in public, alongside the people building the answer.
